Golf Courses

Championship

Golf National

Guyancourt

Hosting since 1991 the French open, a major stop in the European calendar, and hosting in 2018 the Ryder Cup, Albatros course at Golf National combines all traditional aspects of a links course with modern characteristics of target golf.

Fast greens, undulated fairways and many bunkers and water hazards require a large variety of shots and the use of every club in the bag, especially on the last four very specular holes.

Golf de Saint-Nom-la-Bretèche

In 1963, aged of only ten years, it hosted the Canada Cup followed by three French Opens in 1965, 1969, and 1984. Then, for thirty four years it hosted the Trophée Lancôme which gathered many of the world's top men golfers. Since 2009, it has hosted 3 times the Vivendi Seve Trophy which opposes every other year UK and the rest of Europe.
